

WHAT DO YOU SEE?

Save the Children

Aws* lost his mum and dad in a missile strike. He is one of millions of children whose life has been torn apart by Yemen's war.

But when you look at him, do you see an unfortunate statistic?
Or a child?

You could help make sure children like Aws get protected. You can give them the chance to just be children again.

SEE THE CHILD NOT THE WAR

SEE THE CHILD NOT THE WAR

Aws* hasn't dropped any bombs.
He has no blood on his hands.
He's never taken sides, or fired a single bullet. He is just a child.

He should be free to play, to learn – to just enjoy his childhood.

Instead he is one of millions of children in Yemen whose lives are being torn apart by war. The hospitals that could treat them are being bombed and not enough of the aid that could feed them is getting through. They are forced to flee their homes, uprooted from all they know.

Yemen's war is complex. It can leave us feeling powerless and bewildered. But if we see the child, and not the war, it suddenly becomes very simple.

These children are suffering.
They need our help.

Your support could help make sure children in Yemen get food, water and medical treatment.
